Special Announcement

New EASY way to e-mail your Documents

You've asked for it, and now we've delivered. After years of requests, the firm has finally made it possible for our members to send us documents via e-mail. The e-mail address is emaildocs@weinstocklegal.com.

Please note that this is the e-mail equivalent of a fax line. It is not a place where there will be a response and it is not a substitute for calling the 1-800 number to have an intake opened, nor a place to ask legal questions. The current process remains the same. That is, you will call the 1-800 toll free number and have one of our Customer Service Representatives open an intake for you. They would also provide you with an intake number and you would speak to an attorney in the same manner that you currently do. The only difference is that the e-mail address noted above is available for those people who prefer to not use a fax line. E-mail tends to be more reliable than faxes, even with our fax server technology.

emaildocs@weinstocklegal.com

Members are free to use regular mail, fax lines, or this e-mail address. Whichever means is more convenient or easy for you. The Firm simply wanted to alert all of our members that this email address is now available for Title I document submissions and, when appropriate, document submissions on active files under any other Title that the Firm is handling. Please note that if you have a matter being handled by an attorney not directly employed by Weinstock, Friedman & Friedman, P.A., this e-mail address is not to be used. Those document submissions should be sent directly to that Referral Attorney through whatever means they have available. This disclaimer only applies to situations when you have already been referred to a non Weinstock attorney at the time you want to send your documents.

We hope most of you find this to be an improvement and an added convenience for the use of your membership. Our firm is committed to making the experience seamless and easy for you, so that you can enjoy the full benefits and value of the Pre-Paid Services Legal Membership products.
